TIME: 8:00pm-9:00pm EDT

(7:00 pm CDT/ 6:00 pm MDT/ 5:00 pm PDT)

COST: Free for participants!

The AAP Task Force on Mental Health, in collaboration with the Committee on Psychosocial Aspects of Child and Family Health, Council on Children with Disabilities, Council on Community Pediatrics, and Committee on Practice and Ambulatory Medicine are pleased to announce a Web-based teleconference for primary care pediatricians focused on educating pediatricians on how to approach mental health concerns with parents, children, and adolescents in the primary care setting.

By participating in this Web-based teleconference, participants will be able to:

- ▶ Describe how to more effectively approach mental health concerns with parents, children, and adolescents
- ▶ Report an increase in comfort level in approaching mental health concerns with parents, children, and adolescents
- ▶ Recognize the “common factors” approaches in examples provided
- ▶ Report an increased recognition of the ways in which they have already or could incorporate “common factors” approaches in practice
- ▶ Employ communication skills in dealing with mental health problems in primary care.

Funding for this Web-based teleconference is provided through the Improving Mental Health in Primary Care Through Access, Collaboration, and Training grant (G95MC05434) provided by the U.S. Department of Health and Human Services, Health Resources Services Administration, Maternal and Child Health Bureau.

To register, please contact
Aldina M. Hovde at the American Academy of Pediatrics at ahovde@aap.org
800/433-9016, ext 7119.

Join speakers Larry Wissow, MD, MPH and Anne Gadomski, MD, MPH as they discuss the “common factors” approach and present video clips of doctors interviewing simulated patients with mental health problems that are common in the pediatric primary care setting. A panel of experts will be available for questions at the end of the call. Participants will be able to continue the discussion using an e-mail list serv with these experts following the call.
