The screenshot shows the DHCS (Department of Health and Human Services) website. The header includes the DHCS logo and navigation links: Home, About DHCS, and Translate. Below the header is a secondary navigation bar with icons for Services, Individuals, Providers & Partners, Laws & Regulations, Data & Statistics, Forms & Publications, and Search. The main content area features the "Every Woman Counts" title and a description of the program's mission. Below this is an "Announcements" section with a prominent "ProviderLocator" button that encourages users to search for EWC providers. The button includes the text "Search for EWC providers using the new ProviderLocator" and "click here!". Below the button, it states "EWC's consumer line 1-800-511-2300 is now available 24/7!". Further down, there is a section for "Breast Cancer Awareness License Plate" and another for "Breast Cancer Screening & Diagnostic Information".

Every Woman Counts

Every Woman Counts (EWC) provides free breast and cervical cancer screening and diagnostic services to California's underserved populations. The mission of the Every Woman Counts Program is to mitigate the devastating medical, emotional and financial effects of breast and cervical cancer and eliminate health disparities for medically underserved, low-income individuals.
